Our answer to road question: be realistic

Is there anyone who really wants a four-lane road in Carmel Valley? Even those who say that it will eventually become a necessity still admit they don't really want it.

In reference to the "beauty" of the four-lane road as laid out by the planlines, even Monterey County Road Commissioner Bruce McClain admits that it is a squeezed compromise, planned within the narrowest possible margins. But, he said, it isn't even a question of whether we want the road, but whether the people of 1980 will want the road.

(Of course, if the road is built, by 1980 we will have a higher increase in population than if it had not been built because of the easier accessibility to our narrow, lovely Valley.)

We are so much of two minds on the subject that we can find flaws on each side.

Many have said, "...I don't want the road when I'm home, but when I get behind someone driving 30 mph into town, then I want it!" We must admit that we, too, have expressed a similar thought at those times.

Many Valleyites who worked on the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association road report, or who have studied the problem at great length, feel that unless we further limit the population density, we much have the planlines for the inevitable four lanes, even if they

Sheriff's Blotter

Mother won't sign citation; deputy arrests 13-year-old

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Outlook's policy on juveniles in the Sheriff's Blotter has been to withhold names until the youth has been listed three times. In the following report the 13-year-old who is named has appeared twice previously.)

By REX PRYER
Outlook Correspondent

A 13-year-old Carmel Valley boy was arrested at his Wagon Wheel Picnic Grounds home after stealing $10 from girl's purses at Carmel Junior High School and his mother refused to sign a Sheriff's citation.

Randy Crosby, who was implicated by other pupils involved, had been suspended from school earlier in the week because he had threatened another boy with a knife.

The arrest took place June 11, a day after Crosby and other boys were questioned by deputies and junior high principal Dan Yurkovich.

The story which developed, according to Sheriff's department records, went like this:

Crosby and a classmate living on W. Carmel Valley Road admitted taking the money from purses in the girls' gym.

Afterwards, a 14-year-old junior high pupil heard about the theft and bragged that he had done it because, he said, "he wanted to feel important." He showed some of his own money, claiming he had stolen it.

The other Valley resident involved and a Carmel 15-year-old decided to take the money away to prevent the bragging. The Carmel boy supposedly pressed a knife shaped as a ballpoint pen against the 14-year-old's neck and they took the money, about $6. They, however, claimed it was just a pen.

They then gave the $6 plus half of the $10, saying it was stolen, to another pupil, who turned it over to the principal.

The braggart was dismissed when two admitted their involvement and implicated Crosby.

Parents of the two signed citations agreeing to bring their children for juvenile court

TAR BABY, one of the Valley's best loved ponies, died last week. Tar, as he was affectionately called here, belonged to the Creston Crockett family on Upper Circle. Many a Valley child had his first saddle time on Tar's back for he was a popular guest of honor at birthday parties and benefits. A number of years ago several unidentified children at Playtime Nursery School dressed Tar in one of their party hats (above). The day before he died, Tar Baby finished the school year by giving rides to children at the nursery school.

Valleyites hear of smog problems in Los Angeles; 'possible here'

At a meeting lwst week at Tularcitos School Valley residents heard Charles B. Kramer of Pebble Beach tell of how eye irritation in the Los Angeles area became regular two-thirds of the time in a period of only four years from 1942 to 1946.

In speaking against the location of Humble Oil at Moss Landing, he declared, "This one refinery will not cause smog the day after it starts, but other dirty industries will soon follow-for one breeds another."

He cited the example of Standard Oil of California already obtaining permission for oil explorations in Monterey Bay "obviously directed at the possibility of a major refinery being located here."

He estimated that the cost to automobile owners of installing crankcase and exhaust devices on their automobiles at about $3,328 if Monterey County is declared an air pollution area.

Final(?) road hearing Monday; 1,200 signatures collected against planlines

Petitions with some 1,200 names of Valley property owners opposed to four-lane planlines for Carmel Valley Road are expected to be presented to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Monday.

The board, at a special hearing called to consider the planlines, will presumably end speculation on the question with a ruling one way or another.

An Upper Valley group which has been circulating petitions for two months against the proposed planlines from Dorris Drive to Panetta Road will have approximately 1,000 signatures.

In the Lower Valley, another group seeking to rescind established planlines in that area has nearly 200 signatures. The second group got what a spokesman called "a late start."

The Supervisors' hearing will begin at 2 p.m. in Supervisors Chambers in the County Courthouse at Salinas.

County Road Commissioner Bruce McClain said last week at a meeting of Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson's Valley Advisory Council that the need would soon arise for four lanes.

"Eleven studies in 11 years all point to a four-lane road," McClain said.

In later discussion he stated that to his knowledge there was no plan to develop the road through to Greenfield. Several persons, including Louis Gardner of the Carmel Valley Commercial Property Owners Association and John Morse, representing the owners of Rancho del Monte Countr y Club, had questioned the ultimate boundaries of the proposed lines.

Realtor Nancy Strathmeyer suggested that everyone read the report by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association committee, no members of which were in favor of the widened road, but all who found it a necessity to recommend it after study and traffic counts.

A one-sided debate on smog? Concerned Citizens wonder

Rumbles of concern have been heard from steering committee members and others connected with the Concerned Citizens committee as to the validity of their existence.

Much of this grew out of the Town Meeting on Humble Oil and Air Polution, held last week. A number of people attended the gathering, expecting to hear discussion and debate on both sides and thus become better informed on the whole issue.

Most of them were basically against the locating of an oil refinery in Moss Landing, but nevertheless felt that the purpose of the Concerned Citizens group was education and information, not pressure.

Members of the Clean Air Committee and others who spoke left little room for discussion, whereas with a debate and a chance to hear the arguments of Humble Oil, the entire community would be in a better position to evaluate the problem.

When this group of Valley residents banded together it was to further humanitarian practices and provide education and information on items of controversy and community interest. We doubt that anyone could find issue with such a format for existence.

And certainly few would probably support the possibility of a smog-filled Valley.

However, when five or so members of the steering committee rebel at the trend of their idealist service organization turning into a group with card files on "who is in favor of mental health" and "who can be counted on being against the airstrip," etc, then this takes on a totalitarian approach that is dangerous.

In our democracy an intelligent person should be allowed to hear both sides of the issue and come out with a better capability of deciding what is the best answer. Perhaps it would be suicidal to Monterey County to locate a refinery in Moss Landing, but, nontheless, a stacked meeting should be billed as such.

ILLUSTRATOR PARKER WINS HONOR IN N. Y.

Al Parker of Rancho Road has just returned from New York City where he was honored at the President's dinner of the Society of Illustrators.

He was recipient of the 1965 citation for "distinguished achievement in the art of illustration."

It is the first time he has ever been the youngest person ever to have received such an award. The annual dinner has the double purpose of awarding the Hal of Fame honor and naming the new president of the society.

The Society of Illustrators' Hall of Fame was founded in 1958 to give recognition to outstanding accomplishments in the field of illustration achieved by the more than 600 illustrators who are members.

Each year, one is voted into the Hall of Fame by a committee composed of ex-presidents of the society.

Other members, whom Al now joins, are Norman Rockwell, Harold Von Schmidt, Dean Cornwall, Fred Cooper, Floyd Davis, Edward Wilson, Walter Biggs and Arthur William Brown.

Al and his wife, Evelyn, have lived in the Valley since 1956, and their son, Kit, is a student at Carmel High School.

Many of his illustrations have appeared in McCall's, Cosmopolitan, Sports Illustrated and Ladies Home Journal magazines. He is particularly known for his "mother and daughter" covers on the Journal.

He won his first cover job in a contest in 1931 with House Beautiful, and his first drawing was in Ladies' Home Journal.

Just recently, after having another drawing in the Journal, he realized that it was a 35-year anniversary since his first one.

Many Valleyites have acted as models and both the Gregory and Baker children have posed frequently for story illustrations. The Valley itself has been a background for some and Al said it was good to be back and at work again here.

Carl Baker gets post as Valley Lions Club president

Carl Baker has been installed as president of Carmel Valley Lions Club.

Baker took his oath of office last week at ceremonies at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. Dr. William Coughlin of Carmel served as investing officer.

Other new officers include Roy Meadows, first vice president; Ray Meyers, second vice president; Carl Maiser, third vice president; George Jennings, secretary; Jack Black, treasurer; John Koon, lion tamer, and Dean Diaz, tail twister.

New members of the board of directors are Charles Gansel, Lloyd Todd, William Penpraze, Herman Tedrow, Clyde Hitchcock, William Stowers and William Hall.

The dinner, which was attended by 79 members, wives and guests, also marked the first birthday of the club. Carmel Valley Lionettes presented members with a lion pinata mascot, cake and card.

Among visiting dignitaries were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Cunningham of Santa Cruz, district governor elect and his wife, and international councellors Dr. and Mrs. Frank Granito of Seaside, Dr. and Mrs. Coughlin and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baker of Alisal Lions Club.

Tables were decorated by Mmes. Hall and Baker, using Barbie and Ken dolls in scenes depicting the club's successful projects during the year.

Subcommittee finds things good—and bad—about health education

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This report by the Carmel schools subcommittee on health and safety ties in closely with the current controversy over cafeteria conditions in Carmel High School. It has been edited slightly to fit space limitations. Committee members were volunteer citizens living in Carmel Unified School District.)

"Students in elementary, junior and high schools need a new program of health instruction to match the modern methods by which they learn mathematics and physics."

M. D. April, 1965

INTRODUCTION

This special Health and Safety Sub-Committee was formed in April, 1965, by Dr. Joseph Ward, chairman of the Physical Education Committee, to study the health and safety program of the Carmel Unified School District.

This committee wishes to express its appreciation for their time and helpful information to Dr. Ray Charlson of Monterey High School; Gerald Anderson of Seaside High School; Monterey County Health Department; the Allied Vending Service personnel; the superintendent, the principals, the teachers, the school physician and nurses, the cafeteria managers, the director of operations, the maintenance, the transportation, custodian and ground keeper personnel of the Carmel Unified School District and interested parents and citizens.

A DEFINITION OF HEALTH

"There is considerable confusion about the meaning of the term "health;" it is regarded by some persons as the mere absence of disease. This confusion is evident in the popular use of the term "health insurance," when clearly what is meant is "sickness insurance" --obviously not the same thing.

The Yearbook of the American Association of School Administrators makes the following statement:

"The nation's health is measured primarily by mortality statistics." The error in this statement is clear: mortality statistics measure the death rate and reveal nothing about the vigor, vitality, endurance, poise, and living habits of a people.

"The weakness of a definition of health as mere freedom from disease lies in the failure to take into account the individual and social forces that promote superior levels of living and optimum states of being. The prevention of disease is important but disease may be absent and the health of the individual still remain at a low level.

"The health problem for every person is to develop and maintain vigor and vitality, to acquire interests and habits in ways of living that are wholesome, and to meet the demands upon the individual efficiently, with energy, and satisfaction."

PHILOSOPHY OF SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM

"Since health is not a quantity but essentially a condition that come from the kind of living that goes on, the educator must be interested greatly in the habits, skills, and attitudes that children form. This is the crux of the problem in all education.

Since living finely today is the best guarantee of fine living tomorrow, the administrator must review his curricula, methods, and teaching staff to promote the best possible living at the moment for every child in school. To do less than this is to be remiss in one's professional obligations."

"The Administration of Health and Physical Education" --Williams and Brownell, 3rd Edition.

This committee bore in mind the fact that young people learn as much from their surroundings as from actual classroom teaching.

HEALTH AND SAFETY CURRICULUM

K-4 FINDINGS

1. Health education program at this level is left to the discretion of the individual teacher.
2. Most teachers include basic health (cleanliness, need for rest, care of eyes and teeth, etc.) and basic safety (fire prevention, fire drills, safety on the playground, etc.).
3. Some teachers correlate health education with other programs--safe water supply is included in the study of community health; nutrition is included in the study of agriculture of California.
4. Some teachers follow the California State textbook, while others use this only as a resource item.
5. Most teachers make good use of resource people, films, and other visual aids.
6. The committee felt that the State texts were of little value as textbooks.

5-8 FINDINGS

1. The health education program is included in the science program with the exception of one semester in the seventh grade.
2. A movie about "growing up" is offered to fifth and sixth grade girls and their mothers.
3. One sixth grade teacher, Miss Jo Brazell, voluntarily conducted an extracurricular course in good grooming and etiquette for sixth grade girls.
4. The one-semester required course in health education at the seventh grade level, taught by Mrs. Jacqueline Lewis, seems excellent. This course has been enthusiastically received by most students and parents in the years that it has been given.
5. The equipment and resource material in the health education classroom at the junior high school is excellent for teaching this course. Mrs. Lewis is well qualified to give this course the importance it should have in our health education program.
6. An excellent safety program is included in both the industrial arts and the arts and crafts programs at the junior high school. This department has a record of no serious accidents in its classes.

9-12 FINDINGS

1. There is no formal health education program at the high school.
2. There is no health education requirement listed in the course of study outlined by the CUSD Board.

The Valley at LARGE

Comings and goings of people you know...

By GINNIE DREW

George Sims of Hacienda Carmel left Friday on an extended tour of the Iron Curtain countries. Sims formerly lived in the Upper Valley in the Boronda Adobe, which he spent considerable time restoring.

When he travels he always carries pencil and sketch pads and returns with fabulous records of his trips, much as a camera enthusiast comes back from a vacation with slides.

John Senger is beginning to feel a bit relaxed after a grueling six months at University of Illinois where he finished work on his doctorate in business management.

He claims he can't even manage his own household, but he must be able to manage something because he made it at Illinois and came back DR. Senger.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crispo celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary with a dinner party at Will's Fargo.

Haberfeld guest falls, breaks arm

A house guest at the Paul Haberfeld home on West Carmel Valley Road fractured her right arm when she fell from a horse. The Red Cross ambulance of Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department transported Mary Frank of Highland Park, Ill., to Community Hospital.

Joining them for the party were their sons, George and Richard, daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Miller, Mrs. Mame Montesanti and Mr. and Mrs. Frank D'Amato. Among gifts presented to the Crispos was a lovely silver clock from their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Harwell Dyer leave Friday for a month's trip to Jasper, Alberta, in the Canadian Rockies. Periodically they make this trip for a visit with relatives. Mrs. Dyer's brother, Rex Martin, maintains a summer home on Lake Edith, and Mrs. Mildred Loosemore, a sister, will join them there.

In the past when Harwell and Phyllis have made this trip, they have left at about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and arrived at Jasper in time for Harwell to get out on the Lake and catch Monday night's dinner. This time, however, they will travel by way of Olympia Peninsula and the rain forest and take the new highway from Ravelstoke to Banff, making it a 10 day trip.

The Dyer's home will be occupied by friends from San Francisco during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Johnson, parents of Mrs. Mel Blevens, have arrived in the Valley from their home in Corvallis, Oregon, to occupy the house they purchased last year in Robles Del Rio. The Blevens children, Kathryn and Alex, are enjoying having their grandparents within walking distance for daily visits.

UNDER THE OAKS AND AMONG THE CACTI

By MILDRED HATTAN

Parents of tots who participated in the Nursery School program sponsored by the Carmel Valley Community Chapel ended the school year last Friday evening with a pot-luck dinner at the new home on Country Club Drive of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Anderson.

Following the turkey and ham dinner, parents viewed movies and slides taken of their small fry on field trips and during activities.

Attending were Dr. and Mrs. William Rieben, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Kern, Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Jack Ashmore, Rev. and Mrs. Don Johnson, Messrs. and Mmes. Henry Blatnik, Michel Joyet, Frank Bresk, Ed Eagling, Ronald Nicholsen, Pete Scardina, Mrs. Don Condren and Mrs. Caroline Fisher.

GRAD AT CLAREMONT

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick O. Capen, 3 Los Rnachitos, were accompanied by their daughter, Chris, and sons Tracy and Bruce when they attended the graduation ceremonies of their eldest son, Peter, at Claremont Men's College.

Peter, one of 104 graduates, received the degree of bachelor of arts at commencement ceremonies June 6. The graduate attended the old Carmelo School and graduated from Tularcitos School and Carmel High School.

College activities included track, debating, Rally Club and Social Council. A major in history at the liberal arts college of public affairs, Peter's break with studies was a brief one since he is already enrolled in the Standard Oil training program in San Francisco.

FROM OREGON HERE

A warm Valley welcome to Lt. Col. (USA, ret.) and Mrs. Al Friendenthal, who have purchased the Ralph Erion home on Horizon Way.

Former Oregonians, the Friedenthals have more recently made their home in Belvedere in Marin County where they were yachting, gardening, and bridge enthusiasts. Elizabeth discovered Carmel Valley during the war years when Col. Friedenthal was overseas and she was a guest at Rancho Carmelo.

It was always her desire to return and now they number among our newest fulltime residents.

GIORDANO HOUSEWARMING

Although many friends have been entertained in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Giordano at 38 Upper Circle, its official housewarming was held last Monday evening when fellow members of the faculty of Monterey Peninsula College arrived for cocktails and a buffet dinner.

Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young and Capt. and Mrs. S. Y. Cutler. The end of this term marks the retirement for both men, who have served as instructors for many years at MPC.

Others attending were Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Blacow, Messrs, and Mmes. Bernard Revoir, David Hopkins, Fletcher Dutton, Thomas Saake, Mrs. Mary Donovan, Mrs. Alan Bowers and daughter, Teddy, and Mrs. Rita Simmons.

A gift certificate from Valley Hills Nursery was presented to the Giordanos to assist with their landscaping. The accompanying card also was signed by other friends unable to attend, including Messrs, and Mmes. Philip Nash, Carl Reich, and Carol Smith.

BACK FROM THE SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. Peter De Haas have returned to their home at 3 La Rancheria after a visit in Senatobia Miss. with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Phillips, Kathy, Cheryl, and Pam.

They were accompanied home by another daughter, Jean, who has been a coed at North West Mississippi Junior College. Jean plans to remain in the Valley with her parents and to enter MPC in the fall.

Enroute home the De Haas family toured Grand Canyon, Zion National Park and welcomed the Valley's moderate climate after crossing the desert in temperatures well over 100.

AUXILIARY SHOW SITE

Valley Lodge was named as the site for the annual Sept. ember "Cocktail Capers," a fashion show benefit sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department.

The decision was made at the June meeting at the West Carmel Valley Road home of Mrs. Donald Corona. Coffee and dessert followed the business meeting.

GUILD CARD BENEFIT

The monthly benefit Bridge and Canasta Club sponsored by the Guild of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel met Wednesday at the Robles Del Rio Lodge home of their hostess, Mrs. William Wood.

Five tables of bridge and one of canasta enjoyed the spectacular view of the Valley, the games and Kathleen's special dessert, cheesecake and coffee!

Prizes for first and second in bridge went to Mrs. Charles Hunt and Mrs. Peter Girard. Mrs. Peter De Haas won the high award for canasta.

The July card party will be held at the home of Mrs. Elbert Wade. Anyone planning to attend is invited to phone their reservation to Mrs. Ida Duncan at 659-2502.

CARMELO RECUPERATES

Carmelo Panetta was released from the hospital last week after being injured recently in a tractor accident.

He is now able to get around with the aid of a supporting walker and would enjoy visitors at the family home on Panetta Road.

Highlands photographer William Current views White House invite with candor

By MARI DUDLEY
Outlook Staff Writer

When the White House called to invite William Current, Carmel Highlands photographer, to have supper with the President last week, the Outlook asked this reporter to sound out his reaction.

In view of the furor over attendance list by those both invited and uninvited who expressed their personal misgivings over Johnson's foreign policies, this seemed to be a relatively easy assignment.

Current, however, is not a man easily sought out, nor do his deceptively quiet answers at first warn of his intensity.

The first reaction one has is that he is weighing the light as he speaks in much the same manner as a hunting animal is apt to sniff the air. His eyes look as if they have seen everything — and photographed most of it.

If he is to have dinner at the White House — or anywhere else he needs to shave twice, to erase the darkening five o'clock shadow, which seems to be an ever-present characteristic.

Reluctantly he discusses his achievments in the photographic field.

A year's Guggenheim Fellowship in 1964 to prepare a book of photographic essays on the prehistoric american indian.

The fact that he was one of the seven living artists to be exhibited in ahe New York Museum of Modern Art's "American Landscape Show." His pictures there were a main gallery feature depicting "River Rocks" of New Mexico.

A one man show of the South West has just been completed at the Chicago Art Institute and is now touring the country; while later this year he is scheduled for another one-man show for "Eastman House" in New York, which will portray further documentation of the beauties of the Monterey area and Nothern California.

Implacably, he refused to comment on other artists or their political beliefs. These he would respect while with holding judgment upon any man, be he artist or politician.

As regards the Art Festival itself, he had much to say. But this was expressed slowly, and with utterly simple candor.

"An invitation by the President ...Yes, this is an encouraging thing to an artist. Each of us hope for recognition...in our own times. It is a good feeling. That what you are doing becomes a part of your society...In the social context...there is a "social withdrawal" by an artist when he feels he is not socially acceptable. This "thing," then, may count for something.

"There has been so much emphasis on the military, on the economist--the industrialist. These are the areas that have been socially courted. What he is doing — what they are doing — may go far to balance that. But then who really knows?

"We must formulate a view. Not just the work of the artist.. the work, within the society of his fellow men. If this creates a purposeful atmosphere, it is good. It is a start."

Current will return to Carmel Highlands at the conclusion of the Festival to establish a home for his wife, Constance, and their child.

Why, after all he has seen, does he wish to live here?

"Because it is so beautiful." he said. And somehow it didn't sound trite.

Hermanson, Shore win awards

MONTEREY--Jack D. Hermanson of Carmel Valley and Steven M. Shore of Carmel have been awarded honors and scholarships as 1965 graduates of Monterey Peninsula College.

Hermanson garnered Monterey Rotary Club and Associated Students of MPC scholarships, while Shore, editor-in-chief of the student newspaper, El Yanqui, won one of two ASMPC service awards.

Dr. Lowell Adams gets grant for squirrel studies

NEW HAVEN, Conn,--Dr. Lowell Adams of Carmel Valley has been awarded a grant-in-aid from the Society of Sigma Xi, headquartered here.

Dr. Adams' study of deep body temperatures of hibernating California ground squirrels qualified him for the award, according to Dr. Harlow Shapley, chairman of the society's grants-in-aid of research committee.

UN Association

Mrs. Lorenz of Hacienda Carmel new honorary member of board

Mrs. Nellie Lorenz, 82-year-old resident of Hacienda Carmel, last week was voted an honorary member of the board of directors of the newly formed United Nations Association, Monterey Peninsula branch.

A member of the League of Nations Association following the first World War, Mrs. Lorenz joined the League of Women Voters in the 1930's and worked with that organization 20 years ago to implement ratification of the United Nations charter by the U. S. Senate.

She has belonged to the United Nations Association, a privately supported, non-partisan organization of citizens, since its inception.

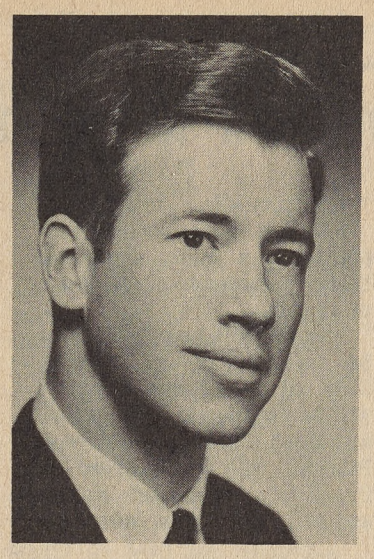
"I believe that at this particular moment, preservation of the United Nations is our most important task," Mrs. Lorenz commented.

Two other Valleyites, Dr. Ann Nowell and Mrs. Norma Holste, will fill the roles of vice-president for program and treasurer, respectively, of the organization. Roger Lorenz of Carmel is vice president for policy.

Col. George Brown of Meadows Road and George Weber of Hacienda Carmel will also serve on the board, which consists of citizens from each area of the Peninsula.

The group's first public activity will be a festival in honor of the 20th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations, to be held June 27 at the Monterey County Fairgrounds. State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel will open the observance, and authentic international entertainment will be provided by many of the Peninsula's foreign-born artists and students.

Admission will be free.



Z. F. LANSDOWNE

Valley man graduates from MIT —on Dean's List for seven terms

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.--Zachary Fenton Lansdowne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Falkland M. Lansdowne of 4 La Rancheria, Carmel Valley, received the bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering during commencement exercises at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Lansdowne, a Dean's List student for seven semesters, has been active as treasurer of Phi Beta Epsilon social fraternity and business manager of "Tangent," campus literary magazine.

His sophomore and junior years he was a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and his junior year he was elected to Hexalpha, M.I.T. electrical engineering honorary society, Eta Kappa Nu, national electrical engineering honorary society, and Tau Beta Pi, national engineering honorary society.

Randy does it again in qualifying

BAKERSFIELD--Randy Mapstead of Carmel High broke the school record for the 880-yard run in the state meet in Bakersfield recently.

The new record of 1:53.6 marks the fourth time this season that Mapstead has surpassed it.

Although he had the fourth best qualifying time in the trials on Friday, he did not make it to the finals. Randy was fourth in his heat, but the first three men in each of the three heats were placed in the finals.

Mapstead had a faster time than did the eventual winner, Richard Joyce of Sierra. Joyce set a new national mark of 1:48.8 in his winning effort.

Youth benefit

CARMEL--Carmel Youth Center will benefit from all July sales at the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services thrift shop, youth center officials said.

Resalable merchandise may be donated to the shop by phoning 624-3285 or 624-1753 for free pickup.

6:00 p.m.-Final routine competition in solos, duets and teams, followed by presentation of awards.

Awards will be presented by Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to first, second and third places in each event. Ribbons will be awarded to fourth through seventh places, and will also be awarded to first through seventh places in stunt competition.

In addition to Sen. Farr, the mayors of all Peninsula cities and editors of all area newspapers have been invited as guests of honor. School officials from Carmel Unified School District have also been invited.

Entries from Cypress Swim Club will include Jan and Sharon Roehl, with their duet entitled, "Fiddle-Fiddle," and in team competition, two routines; "Toy Soldiers On Parade," featuring Bonnie Banker, Susan Blandin, Lindy Doud, Marnie Mark, Sheila McClain, Kathy Neill, Joanne Padjen and Susan Selfridge; and "Cotillion Waltz," with Sandy Avis, Lynn Campbell, Margaret Demarest, Jan Roehl, Sharon Roehl and Judy Snyder.

Valleyites, who saw these girls in a stroking demonstration at the Festival of the Grape recently at Rancho Del Monte Country Club, will be "particularly impressed" with their progress in these routines, according to their coach and manager of the championship meet, Donn Squire.

Red Sox lead second half of LL season in Valley—batting .1000

The Red Sox came through the first half of play in first place in Carmel Valley Little League.

They were hands-down winners, with the Volunteers second by a three-game margin. The Sox won nine and lost one while the Volunteers ran up a 6-4 record.

Next were the Giants (3-7) and Tigers (2-8), six and seven games out respectively.

Entering the second half, The Sox are already a game ahead with 3-0, followed by the Tigers (2-1). The Volunteers fell to third at 1-2 and the Giants are fourth at 0-3.

The wildest game of the second frame was the June 12 Tigers-Volunteers tilt, won by the Tigers by a lopsided 21-8.

Other scores through Sunday: Red Sox 5, Giants 1; Red Sox 11, Volunteers 0; Tigers 14, Giants 3; Red Sox 3, Tigers 2, Volunteers 13, Giants 10.

The Little League barbecue Sunday attracted some 300 persons, League Pres. Sherman LaFave said. He credited volunteers who helped and those who attended for the "roaring success" of the event.

Attendance of parents and friends at games would add to the success of the season, he added. He invited all Valleyites to watch the games, all played at the Little League field next to the Village Fire Station.

Things good—and bad—about health, citizens find in CUSD schools

3. Some health in relation to driving (as outlined in the California Vehicle Code) and a standard American Red Cross First Aid are included in the driver education program.

4. Occasional informal "talks" about health are given in various physical education classes--at the discression of the individual teachers.

4. Films on alcoholism, narcotics, tobacco and veneral disease were shown to all physical education classes during renovation of locker rooms.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. This committee suggests that a health education curriculum be outlined for each grade level in the CUSD, for use by the administration and the faculty, to assure coordination and continuity in this program.

2. This health education program should be planned by a committee made up of CUSD administrators and faculty and specialized professional people of the community.

3. Full use should be made of community resources to bring about an awareness of safety-consciousness in students and personnel in the CUSD.

4. Resource materials available in the schools for teachers and students should be continually increased and updated.

5. This committee suggests that Miss Brazell be given every possible encouragement and aid towards the continuation of the good grooming activity club for sixth grade girls.

6. This committee feels that Mrs. Lewis be commended for the excellent way in which she has set up and taught the health education course in the junior high school.

7. A wellqualified replacement for Mrs. Lewis sould be sought so that this specific required course of study in health education may be continued in the seventh grade.

8. This committee recommends that a required health education program (minimum of one semester) should be given at the 10th and 11th grade level. This course should be realistic and provocative to the students.

This course should be an advanced program which includes family relations, and social, medical, ethical, legal and moral aspects of health.

These specific categories could be taught by professional people in these various fields who live in the community, including the school nurses (who are qualified to teach health).

HEALTH
SERVICE PROGRAM

NURSES

A sizeable portion of the health and safety program of the CUSD, which is largely taken for granted, is that which is covered by the "school nurse." The two school nurses in this district are registered in the State of California, have had public health training and hold Health and Development (Nurse) credentials. They are employed on the same basis as other teachers and should enjoy the same privileges and restrictions.

As part of her stated duties, the school nurse:

1. Keeps cumulative health records of all students.

2. Assists in routine vision screening, hearing tests, immunization programs, communicable disease control, first aid.

3. Serves as resource person in school and community health programs for pupils, school personnel and parents.

4. Carries out health responsibilities of school with the advice and assistance of the school physician.

Those of us who have been exposed to members of the nursing profession are aware that most of these individuals have a high sense of integrity, responsibility, conscientiousness and fair play. If a well trained nurse sees a potential health or safety hazard, ethically she must make every attempt to remove it. We would not have her otherwise.

RECOMMENDATIONS

For the legal protection of the Carmel Unified School District, it is suggested that simple one-line records be kept on all injuries which receive treatment.

TRANSPORTATION,
MAINTENANCE, GROUNDS,
CUSTODIAL SERVICE

FINDINGS
TRANSPORTATION

1. School bus drivers have special training before transporting students.

2. Bus drivers must have current standard first aid card.

3. Bus drivers have authority to report uncooperative riders to the school principal for disciplinary action.

4. School buses, as well as other school vehicles, are kept in good condition safety-wise.

5. There is no protection from the weather for employees where maintenance of vehicles is carried out.

MAINTENANCE

1. Mr. Goodrick reports safety devices in maintenance machinery are adequate.

2. Adequate personnel for emergency repair work only.

3. Inadequate personnel for daily upkeep and preventive care of school facilities.

4. Observation of some repairs needed at high school:

A. Many drinking fountains inoperative (broken handles, plugged spouts, low water pressure, etc.)

B. Apparent leaks in toilet facilities.

C. Urinals that cannot be flushed.

D. Unevenness in corridors (outside).

E. Chalk-rock steps badly chipped and uneven.

5. Junior High

A. Several wash basins missing in lavatories.

B. Soap dispensers missing.

C. Broken tile in boys' locker room.

D. Plates over access openings to electrical wiring missing in boys' locker room.

E. Many locker doors cannot be closed in boys' locker room.

6. Elementary Schools

A. Slide on blacktop except at landing area at end; safety hazard at Woods School.

B. Lack of benches on playground, especially lower playground at River School.

GROUNDS

1. Inadequate care of grounds

12. Benches be provided on the playground at River School

13. Area surrounding slide at Woods School should be replaced with tanbark or sand.

14. More drastic measures be taken to curtail the dangerous and illegal "hitchhiking" which occurs among students, especially at the junior high.

15. That the need for a nurse's office and a teacher's room at Carmelo School be made a specific requirement when new construction is considered for Carmelo School.

16. Lavatories at the high school to be locked when school closes in the afternoon, with a minimum number to be open for adult school in the evening.

CAFETERIA OPERATIONS

FINDINGS

1. This committee visited River, Woods and Tularcitos school cafeterias. We found well organized and clean operations. Each of these cafeterias has a manager, hired by the Carmel Unified School District, who is responsible to her principal. A well balanced, hot lunch is offered to these children in cheerful, happy surroundings at a minimal cost.

2. There are no cafeterias at Palo Colorado, Captain Cooper and Carmelo schools.

3. A visit was also paid to the Sunset cafeteria. In as much as the school closes this month no recommendations are made.

4. The Carmel Junior High School has a snack bar staffed by employees of the Carmel Unified School District. These employees serve hamburgers, hot dogs, french fries, milk shakes, cookies and milk. They inspect the vending machines for cleanliness and to see that all food is wrapped.

No soft drinks or candy bars are allowed.

The cafeteria is only open at the lunch period and a half hour before school starts. Before school just the hot chocolate vending machine may be used.

An administrative or faculty member is in attendance when the cafeteria is open. The overall operation was well run and clean.

5. On April 6, this committee visited the Carmel High School cafeteria. In the kitchen area we observed dirty garbage cans, litter on the floor around the cans and an open grease container.

Food was spilled on the racks and bottom of the refrigerator. Holes were observed in the screens of the back porch. A used coffee cup with a cigarette butt in it was lying in the drain under the sink.

A lady food handler, in street clothes and no hair net, was putting food in the vending machine.

In the eating area, the exterior and interior of the vending machines were dirty, (smeared dried food, crumbs). The walls behind the trash cans were splattered with food. The students were unattended.

Some left the cafeteria leaving their orange peels and paper wrappings on the tables and floor. We also saw some students throw their garbage at the cans, miss and not pick it up.

On May 17, we toured the eating area of the cafeteria with the vice principal. We found the vending machines much cleaner.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. We recommend that the cafeteria manager be responsible for the children assisting in serving lunches. That they wear clean aprons, wash their hands and the girls wear hair nets.

2. This committee recommends that the high school cafeteria be open only at the morning break and the three lunch periods. This would give more adequate time for cleaning and may help to cut down on the litter.

3. The sandwiches prepared for the vending machine are marked with a colored ink code, indicating when they are made. It is strongly recommended that this color code be posted for all to see.

4. This committee recommends that a qualified person of the school district be charged with the responsibility of periodic inspections of the kitchens and eating areas. The findings of these inspections are to be reported to the school principal and a copy to the superintendent's office.

We recommend that this be included in the vending machine contract with the school district.

SUMMARY

In summary this committee would like to recommend the following:

1. A more positive attitude on the part of the administration to a planned health program for all students-with specific required courses at the seventh and 10th or 11th grade level.

Good, bad things found in CUSD health programs

2. A periodic check be made of all school food preparation facilities by the school administration or a committee appointed by the school board.

3. That better communication be developed among the school board, administration and faculty to promote the optimum of health and safety for the Carmel Unified School District.

4. It is the feeling of this committee that increased expenditure on maintenance now would, in the long run, provide a savings to the taxpayer and add to student and community pride.

5. That administrators, teachers and student government initiate and promote a "pride in school" attitude among the students.

6. That the Carmel Unified School District and the future Citizen's Health and Safety Committee investigate the findings of the nationwide Study of Health Instruction in he Public Schools 1961-1963, sponsored by the Samuel Bronfman Foundations of New York City. The final results will be available January, 1966.

7. We respectfully request a meeting with the Carmel school board and administrators by December, 1965, for their report on actions taken on these recommendations.

hearings, while Crosby's mother would not.

Crosby was home alone when a deputy made the arrest.

Earlier, witnesses said Crosby had stolen a bicycle from another youth in January and he was implicated in an act of breaking and entering in November of last year.

Also on the blotter recently:

JUNE 13--A shepherd in Robles Del Rio bit a girl. An animal control officer was sent to investigate.

JUNE 10--Motorcycles were reported driving on Carmel Valley Airstrip, bothering neighbors. They were gone upon arrival by a deputy.

JUNE 11--Light bulbs had been removed from fixtures and tossed into and around the swimming pool at Robles Del Rio Lodge, the management reported.

JUNE 13--A group of juveniles was suspected of scratching through the paint on 80 per cent of a vehicle on Lupin Lane. They had been speaking vulgar language beforehand and the resident asked them to leave.

JUNE 10--The radio in a wrecked auto parked at Carmel Valley Mobil Station was stolen after the station had closed the previous evening.

JUNE 18--The transmission and drive shaft were removed and stolen from a car parked overnight at Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. Owner David R. Tadman of Seaside said the four-speed floor shift and shaft were taken after he had lost his keys and left the car.

JUNE 19--Seven units at Hacienda Carmel were burglarized the same night when the residents failed to lock their doors properly. Deputies determined that 40 doors were tried altogether and that $179 in cash, plus wallets and purses, were taken. Six of the owners were asleep in their beds at the time. The seventh was out of town.

Road hearing Monday; petitions with 1,200 names expected

In speaking of the lack of esthetics involved in the present road design, Robert Stanton suggested, "Maybe the plan lines are not wide enough. Perhaps they should be 300 feet instead. When you let automobiles and dollars control it then you have poor design!"

Jack Uzzell suggested that keeping the road narrow and rural should, as in the case of an antique, make property values even higher, because in 20 years it will be a rarity to have a country atmosphere.

EDITORIAL: Use sense on road

are far in the future. Granted, they should have been placed 20 years ago when two separated country roadways could have easily been planned, but they weren't.

They could have been placed 10 years ago when many of today's property owners still wouldn't have been affected, but they weren't. And common sense says put them down now, before the situation becomes worse.

On Monday, the question of planlines will again come before the County Board of Supervisors. (The planning commission has already approved them.)

A number of Valley residents have circulated and/or signed petitions against the acceptance of the lines. In a local paper and by letter to other Valley residents, S. F. B. Morse has taken a stand against the planlines which cut into his River Ranch. Mr. Morse carries a lot of weight, and with Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson already on record as not favoring the lines, the matter may die in the Supervisors' chambers.

Then where does this leave us? $17,500 worth of research down the drain, the traffic problem not solved and time marching onward. Then the problem becomes one of starting all over to plan for the future.

If this should happen, then we must really plan..for two widely separated roads, or a much wider right-of-way to allow a degree of meandering, some answer within the rural concept.

We do have to plan for future population increases. We can't close our eyes and pretend that it won't happen; it is happening every day.

Reluctantly, we say the best thing is to plan now.

However, we do question one aspect of the whole matter. In the country area near New York City and Philadelphia, Connecticut, Long Island, Buck's County, etc., with a huge commuting population they still have narrow roads in their rural communities.

And those communities are the most desirable in which to live. They have the highest property values.

In California, it seems we are so mechanized and speed-oriented that we are slaves to the automobile, and any esthetic philosophy of living has been replaced by a practical computerized approach that leaves no room for man to grow in any way, except faster and more organized.

Smog in Valley? Possible, says anti-Humble speaker anced by the under one million dollars which Humble would pay in taxes," he continued.

He also stated that section 62 of the Los Angeles air pollution ordinance, which requires the burning of natural gases rather than crude oil during the hot months when air inversion is greater, is not a part of our Monterey County regulations.

Kramer concluded by pleading for clean industry which would not depress land values and ruin the tourist and agricultural business of the county.

Professor William Howard Church of the Monterey U. S. Naval Postgraduate School gave employment and salary figures to indicate that the people of Salinas who favor the installation would not profit in the way they expect. He suggested that "they are looking at the short term gain and failing to look at the long term possibility."

Carvel Baldwin, formerly of Los Angeles, spoke of living in a pattern of an air conditioned office.

Up to Martin

Sheriff's deputies advised William Martin of Salinas it was up to him to file a complaint against Wilbur (Homer) Gruver of Pacific Grove when the two were involved in a fight at the Stirrup Cup cocktail lounge May 31.

Previously, reports had said Gruver could file against Martin.

Bob's Corner HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY BOB LAMBERT

HINT OF THE WEEK

Dear Readers:

I want to thank each and every one of you that have taken the trouble to tell me how much you have enjoyed my little column. Reader response has been terrific, and to an amateur writer this is real encouragement. Again, thanks!

This week I want to briefly discuss refrigeration. This is one of the least thought of appliances in the house, yet is used the most. The average life expectancy is ten years. Next to your range it is the most intimate and its importance should be rated as number One on the list of expenditures. Refrigeration units themselves are simple, reasonably fool proof and not too expensive. There are only a few manufacturers in the business producing them, so the guarantees are almost identical across the board. The big differences are in the case, insulation, electrical controls, internal conveniences and miscellaneous features. It is the combination of these features, plus your personal needs as a family that determine the box most suitable to your needs. I have one customer now with a box that cost over $750 that is so mismatched to her needs, it will have to be altered or replaced, and it is less than two years old. Most families can't go too wrong by buying the factory design average as they are designed to the average American family, but if you are one of the minority groups be careful that what you buy is suited to your needs.

I hate to admit it but Kenmore comes as close to the cost refrigeration dollar for standard refrigeration as any box made, but for quality boxes plus special features built in mass production, I choose Frigidaire. There are speciality units like Amana, Revco, Zero-Zone, Carrier, etc. that make custom equipment that is made to order. Also mass produced units by G. E., Westinghouse, Tappan, Gibson, producing mostly low cost units most of which come off the same assembly line with different names on the box. But for all around quality, cost, and features Frigidaire is hard to beat. In another column I will go into the various features and what they do for you.
